

Worth It?

Go / no-go on verified-revenue platforms

Credible data. Not a credible channel.

Buy the data, skip the channel

List and verify our revenue

Publish our own verified revenue on a public trust profile.

WHAT WORKS

- ✓ Verification is genuine
- ✓ Multiple payment rails
- ✓ Fast, low-cost setup

WHAT DOESN'T

- ⚠ Audience too small
- ⚠ Peers are hobby-scale
- ⚠ Exposes our numbers

$282

Median listing's monthly revenue

Real credibility, negligible reach — revisit only if the platform publishes audience figures.

Buy reach from their audience

Sponsor or advertise to the founders browsing the platform.

WHAT WORKS

- ✓ Founder-dense audience
- ✓ Genuinely global spread
- ✓ Cheap to test

WHAT DOESN'T

- ⚠ Reach unmeasurable
- ⚠ Weak search authority
- ⚠ No sponsorship proof

82%

Of listings report no traffic at all

We cannot size the audience, so we cannot price the spend or judge the return.

Acquire a listed business

Buy one of the businesses currently listed for sale here.

WHAT WORKS

- ✓ Active seller supply
- ✓ Revenue is verified
- ✓ Broad category spread

WHAT DOESN'T

- ⚠ Mostly sub-scale
- ⚠ Asking prices rich
- ⚠ Multiples don't reconcile

4.8x

Median ask against trailing revenue

Small assets at large multiples — the arithmetic never reaches our threshold.

Use the verified-revenue data

Treat the verified revenue as prospect and market intelligence.

WHAT WORKS

- ✓ Revenue is API-verified
- ✓ Pre-qualified prospect pool
- ✓ B2B far richer

WHAT DOESN'T

- ⚠ Profiles often incomplete
- ⚠ Many firms anonymous
- ⚠ Timelines don't reconcile

DECISION

Take the data. Skip the channel.

Verification is the one thing here we cannot get elsewhere. The audience and the assets behind it are not at our scale.

- PRIORITY 1 Verified-revenue data as a prospect and market-signal source
- PRIORITY 2 Listing our own revenue — hold until audience figures exist
- PASS Sponsorship and acquisitions
