

CATEGORY INVESTMENT ANALYSIS

Market Opportunities to Invest In

Where subscriber retention and revenue momentum point next

1,000

startups analyzed

46,160

active subs — top category

24 categories compared

Active Subscribers: Our Signal for Category Attractiveness

Retained, paying users — not one-off sales — determine which categories compound value over time

Top 10 Categories by Active Subscribers

1

AI

46,160 active subscribers • 197 startups

$1.81M total MRR | $6.30M 3-mo revenue
+16.7% avg MRR growth

2

Health & Fitness

41,262 active subscribers • 34 startups

$171K total MRR | $494K 3-mo revenue
Highest subs-per-startup ratio

3

Mobile Apps

24,752 active subscribers • 52 startups

$203K total MRR | $698K 3-mo revenue
Broadest active user base

Note: MRR / revenue figures shown as supporting evidence for the ranking, not the primary ranking criterion.

Where We Recommend Investing

Ranked by active-subscriber retention, validated by revenue scale and growth

1

AI — Scale AND stickiness

46,160 active subscribers — the largest retained base of any category — sits on top of $1.81M in total MRR and 16.7% average MRR growth across 197 startups. This is the rare case where volume, retention, and momentum all agree.

2

Health & Fitness — Highest retention efficiency

Just 34 startups generate 41,262 active subscribers — more retained users per company than any other category. Smaller revenue base today, but the subscriber density signals strong product-market fit worth backing early.

3

Mobile Apps — Broadest reach, room to monetize

24,752 active subscribers across 52 startups gives the widest distribution of the three. Revenue per subscriber trails AI and Health & Fitness today — an upside lever rather than a red flag.

Recommendation: lead with AI for scale and near-term returns; allocate a smaller, earlier-stage stake to Health & Fitness for retention upside.